Building Community through Oral History

A Hands-On Workshop for Towns, Schools, and Organizations

Is your community interested in collecting and presenting its stories but not sure where to start?

Historical societies, libraries, schools, and other organizations interested in creating oral history projects should plan to attend this hands-on, one-day workshop where oral historian Jo Radner will guide participants through designing oral history projects, effective strategies of interviewing, and presenting community stories. Participants will leave with a repertoire of useful skills, a plan of action, and a manual for future reference.

It is recommended that each community be represented by a minimum of three participants.

Date:	Saturday, January 10, 2015
Time:	9:00 am – 5:00 pm
Location:	Hopkinton Town Library, 61 Houston Drive, Hopkinton, NH 03229
Cost:	No charge to attend workshop, but registration by December 13, 2014 is required
Details:	A minimum of three individuals from each community is highly recommended; bring your own lunch or order a boxed lunch for $5 (see registration form)
Registration:	Go to www.HopkintonTownLibrary.org or www.HopkintonHistory.org to download the registration form
Questions:	For administrative questions, contact the library at info@hopkintontownlibrary.org or 746-3663, or the Society at hmitchell@hopkintonhistory.org or 746-3825. For questions about the workshop, contact Jo Radner at jradner@american.edu.

Jo Radner lives in Lovell, Maine, and has taught oral history workshops and performed community stories from Maine to Hawaii. She is past president of the American Folklore Society and the National Storytelling Network. www.joradner.com

Hopkinton Historical Society
300 Main St.
Hopkinton, NH 03229
603-746-3825
www.HopkintonHistory.org

Hopkinton Town Library
61 Houston Dr.
Hopkinton, NH 03229
603-746-3663
www.HopkintonTownLibrary.org